

Richard Charschan

The luxury private home theatre is now the favorite room in the house, but it takes a top-notch professional company, and designer like Richard Charschan, owner of AcousticSmart, to transform any size space into a true theatrical experience, and a worthwhile investment for the family. AcousticSmart, a family-owned company with offices in New York, Houston, and Los Angeles, specializes in the design and fabrication of acoustically-treated custom home theatre interiors, and is well-known nationally for manufacturing the most innovative luxury CinemaLoungers in the industry. To assure design precision, theatres are shown to clients in photorealistic three-dimensional renderings, and full AutoCad drawings. Customized magical details include fiber optic ceilings with shooting stars, millwork stained in AcousticSmart's own shop, concession areas, cinema-themed fabrics and carpeting, motorized theatrical curtains, digital movie posters, and more. AcousticSmart's proprietary cinema lounge provides optimum viewing angles and is designed with dual motors for footrest and back plus heat and massage.

“We work with the best audio dealers in the industry. Great planning and great teamwork give you a great final product—from inspiration to installation, AcousticSmart takes your home theatre from concept to reality.”
